3. Reasons for the revisions

Financial results forecast

While the Living and Industrial Materials business remained firm, the Information-related businesses saw a decline in catalogs and information magazines mainly due to stricter order management with a focus on profitability, and net sales are expected to fall short of initial forecasts.

In terms of profits, progress in event operations and merchandise sales in the Contents-related business, as well as new projects for local governments, has been slower than expected. In addition, orders for smart cards for transport purposes fell short of the plan. As a result of these factors, operating profit and ordinary profit are expected to fall short of the initial forecasts.

Profit attributable to owners of parent, however, is expected to remain at a level in line with the initial forecast, due in part to an increase in gain on the sale of stock associated with fluctuations in stock prices and the number of securities sold.

Dividend forecast

The Company has set a dividend on equity ratio (DOE) target of 3.5% in order to prioritize the enhancement of corporate value and maintenance of stable long-term dividends.

In light of this policy and the full-year financial results forecast, we plan to increase the year-end dividend by ¥2 per share from the initial forecast to ¥40 per share. The annual dividend is expected to be ¥78, including the interim dividend of ¥38 per share that has already been distributed.

(Note) The abovementioned financial results forecast has been prepared based on information currently available to the Company, and actual results may differ from these forecasts due to various factors in the future.
